

The Global Script of Indigenous Identities: Local Literacies, Oral Languages, and the Written Word

An International Symposium

October 30-31, 2008

MSU Union, Gold Room B

Michigan State University • East Lansing, Michigan

This symposium examines how indigenous communities have used global networks to advance their own ideas regarding cultural maintenance, preservation, and difference. Scholars from various disciplines whose work spans North, Central, and South America will engage in a cross-disciplinary dialogue on Americas' indigeneities and their ways to convey, record, and transmit information in global worlds.

For more information and to register, visit www.cisah.msu.edu/cisah\_new/globalscript.html

SPEAKERS

On North America

Chadwick Allen, The Ohio State University

Margaret Bender, Wake Forest University

Kathleen Bragdon, The College of William & Mary

On Mexico and Central America

Mónica Domínguez Torres, University of Delaware

Christian Fernández-Palacios, Louisiana State University

John Tutino, Georgetown University

On South America

Florencia Mallon, University of Wisconsin – Madison

Joanne Rappaport, Georgetown University

Juan Ulises Zevallos-Aguilar, The Ohio State University

Sponsored by the College of Arts and Letters at Michigan State University and by the following MSU units: American Indian Studies Program; Center for Integrative Studies in the Arts and Humanities; Center for Integrative Studies in Social Science; Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies; College of Social Science; International Studies and Programs; Global Literary and Cultural Studies; Residential College in the Arts and Humanities; Department of Anthropology; Department of Art and Art History; Department of English; Department of History; Department of Spanish and Portuguese; Department of Writing, Rhetoric, and American Cultures; Student Affairs and Services.

College of Arts & Letters

MICHIGAN STATE
UNIVERSITY